

DOCK SALVAGE WORK GOES ON

Expect To Start Sawing
Dimension Lumber
Friday

The task of dismantling the unfinished No. 3 ore dock is proceeding on schedule. C. G. Bridges, who has the contract for the removal of the dock timbers, now has about 30 men employed on the project.

Efforts to date have been confined to what is considered preliminary work, and while a considerable amount of timber already has been removed, the results are not yet apparent. Workmen are concentrating now, during reasonably good weather, in knocking down the five vents of the structure on the water front.

The vents, which rise 80 feet in the air, are composed of smaller timbers, and when their demolition is completed, the large dock timbers, rising 40 feet, will remain. The task of taking down the bottom portion of the structure will move faster, it was explained Tuesday.

Once the timbers are knocked down, the structural bolts will be removed, and the timbers sawed into dimension lumber lengths. The material then will go to the Shepeck Dimension Lumber company to be sawed into dimension lumber, which will be used in another government project at Merimac, Wis. It is expected that the sawing operations at the mill will get under way by Friday.

The contract calls for completion of the dismantling operations in 60 days.

CUTTING CURBED ON YULE TREES

Dealers Fear Flooded
Market As In 1943;
Supply Short

Lansing, Nov. 28 (P)—The state may not have enough Christmas trees this year because Michigan Christmas tree handlers who were faced with a flooded market last year fear a similar experience this season. C. A. Boyer, director of orchard and nursery inspection for the state agricultural department, said today.

Boyer, differing sharply from federal reports of a plentiful tree supply, said fewer than one-tenth the usual number of Yule trees have passed through permit checking stations to date. He estimated the state usually used between 750,000 and 1,000,000 Christmas trees, while current operations indicate a 250,000 tree shortage this year. Last year, 1,500,000 were cut.

Boyer said he didn't "want to start another rush into the woods like last year when more than 250,000 surplus trees were cut and had to be burned, but if the tree trade continues as it has for another week we won't have enough trees for the Christmas season."

Normally trees for urban markets would have been cut by this time, Boyer said, but spot checks indicated few had been. He attributed the indicated shortage to lack of labor and fear of financial loss.

To simplify housekeeping, clean out all the unnecessary articles that have accumulated during the year and give them to salvage drives.

Enforcement Begun On State Financial Responsibility Law

Lansing, Nov. 28 (P)—Enforcement of Michigan's new financial responsibility law will start at once, Secretary of State Herman H. Dignan announced today after he was informed that Edward H. Barnard, Detroit attorney, had withdrawn an appeal to the United States supreme court to block enforcement of the act.

Dignan said the appeal was the last action possible to stay enforcement of the law, which was adopted in 1943. Barnard said he had withdrawn the appeal because his clients "are no longer interested." The suit was begun in the Wayne county circuit court on behalf of a group of objectors who claimed that it was passed "for the purpose of enriching insurance companies at the expense of the public."

The law is expected to be in complete effect within two weeks, Dignan said, as soon as the necessary increased clerical help and equipment can be obtained.

Dignan reported that 8,784 accident reports already have been filed in accordance with the act and that 1,132 showed no insurance coverage.

Major provisions of the law provide that every driver or car owner involved in an accident resulting in the death or injury of a person must make a written report to this office within 10 days. Forms for such reports will be available at Department of State branch offices and all law enforcement stations.

Under the law if the owner or operator filing such a report certifies that a bodily injury insurance policy protecting him was in force at the time of the accident no further action will be taken by the state. If no insurance was in effect at the time of the accident then the owner or operator within 30 days must either settle all personal injury claims, deposit up to $10,000 in cash or furnish whatever bond the secretary of state may prescribe. Failure to obey the law will result in suspension of the driver's license which can not be reinstated until all accident claims are paid and financial responsibility to pay for future accidents is shown.

YANKS WIDEN WEDGE DRIVEN INTO GERMANY

U. S. First army doughboys pushed east astride another of the Nazis' prized motor routes, fighting their way into Jungsdorf, only four miles from Duren, in a three-pronged assault that carried another mile and a quarter into the Roer river defenses where the Germans are making an all-out stand.

First army troops also slugged into Inden on the Inde river three miles from the Roer and midway between Duren and Julich. They were closing in on Lamersdorf, on the Inde between Inden and newly-captured Frenz.

In Hurtgen forest southwest of Duren the Yanks were fighting bitterly to oust the Germans from positions in the bomb-rubbed remains of the town of Hurtgen, two-thirds of which was in American hands. North of Hurtgen American artillery continued methodically to soften the enemy defenses of Grosshau.

The Third army, however, continued to score notable advances. Its 95th division plunged over the German border from the vicinity of Villigen in a two-mile advance that carried a mile inside Germany and three and one-half miles from Saarlautern.

This penetration, south of the previous Third army invasions of German soil, gave Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's men a 26-mile front inside the Reich and control of something more than 40 square miles of German territory.

News From Men In The Service

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Anderson, 1331 North Nineteenth Street, recently received a letter from Commanding officer, Lt. General George C. Kenney, Headquarters Allied Air Forces, Southwest Pacific Area, telling them that their son, Staff Sgt. Marvin A. Anderson, had been decorated with the air medal.

He was cited for meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flights in the Southwest Pacific last summer. Sgt. Anderson is a gunner on a Liberator bomber.

"It was an award made in recognition of courageous service to his combat organization, his fellow American airmen, his country, his home and to you," according to the letter.

General Kenney wrote, "I would like to tell you how genuinely proud I am to have men such as your son in my command, and how gratified I am to know that young Americans with such courage and resourcefulness are fighting our country's battle against the aggressor nations."

Sgt. Anderson is now in the Dutch East Indies.

Electricians Mate 1/c Matt L. Costell, who has been in the United States Navy for 13 years, and Joseph Costell, of the Army Medical Corps, now in England, are sons of Joe Koselchak of Milwaukee. They are brothers of Mrs. Melvin Olson of Soo Hill. Matt is now serving in South America, was last home in the spring of 1943. Joseph has been in the army for five years and has been overseas since September, 1943. Two other sons also are in service. They are Emil, in the United States Merchant Marine, and John, who has been with the Air Corps in England since April of this year.

Word was received from Pvt. Clifford Dawson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Dawson, Escanaba Route One, that he is now stationed in England. Inducted on Nov. 5, 1941, from Menominee county, Pvt. Dawson was sent overseas five months of training at Camp Croft, S. C.

Mrs. Donald Dabney has received word from her husband, Pvt. Donald Dabney, that he is now stationed somewhere in Burma. Pvt. Dabney is in the infantry.

WELLS SAWMILL BEING WRECKED

Lower Michigan Firm To Salvage Lumber From Old Structure

Another of Escanaba's industrial buildings which flourished during the district's era of big lumbering operations, is on its way into history. The old hardwood sawing mill, formerly operated by the I. Stephenson Lumber company at Wells, is being torn down.

Constructed almost entirely of hemlock lumber, the structure has been purchased by John Kantzler and Son, wrecking contractors, of Bay City and St. Clair. While some of the lumber in the building appears beyond usefulness, Mr. Kantzler expects to salvage approximately 200,000 feet of sound lumber.

The contractor explained that his business is selling salvaged lumber. He will dispose of the material here if possible. What remains when he completes his wrecking operations will be shipped to his outlets in Lower Michigan.

The old sawmill, located back of the Shepeck Dimension Lumber mill, was constructed about 1900, when the Stephenson company enlarged its operations to include hardwoods. The building was equipped with two band saws, a double horizontal resaw and double edger with trimmer. It had an annual capacity of about 36,000,000 feet.

The machinery rolled to a stop for the last time on Friday, Aug. 20, 1943, and at that time it was estimated that upwards of a billion feet of logs had passed through the mill. Continually decreasing local supply of raw materials was given as the reason for the final shutdown.

In addition to tearing down the old landmark, Kantzler and Son's operations will include demolition of the old tramways located in the mill yards. At present, 17 local men are employed on the project, and it is expected that wrecking operations will continue during the next four or five months.

Former members of the Legion Sons drum and bugle corps, now wearing the uniforms of soldier, sailor and marine in the U. S. armed forces abroad, are hoping that the corps will be active and going when they return, according to letters received by Con McCauley, director of the corps.

All those who at any time have been a member of the corps, as well as those listed as members during the present year, are asked to be present at the meeting Thursday. Those having equipment or instruments belonging to the corps are asked to bring it with them for a checkup at the meeting.

REMOVE AIDS TO NAVIGATION

Coast Guard Taking Up Buoys In Northern Green Bay

Buoys and other aids to navigation from the northern section of Green Bay are being removed by the Coast Guard and brought to the Merchants' Dock in Escanaba for storage during the winter months. The work is being done by crews of the Coast Guard tenders Hyacinth and Hollyhock, which docked at Escanaba Monday night.

Yesterday the Hollyhock and Hyacinth went out to continue the work. Removal of the buoys marks the end of the 1944 navigation season on Green Bay.

The last over carrier to clear from Escanaba was the steamer L. W. Hill of the Hannah Steamship company, which left port Monday night with 9,800 tons of iron ore for Detroit.

The buoys removed from the northern part of the bay will next spring be repaired and repainted before they are again placed in service for the opening of the 1945 navigation season.

Along with the removal of the buoys will come the closing of the Minneapolis Shoal lighthouse, of which Anton M. Jensen Jr., is officer in charge. He and William O'Hern, first assistant, and Peter Scott, second assistant at the Minneapolis Shoal light, are expected to leave the light Friday for Escanaba, closing the lighthouse for the winter.

Only navigation on Green Bay during the winter months is the Ann Arbor car ferry, which operates between Menominee and Frankfort.

Commercial fishing craft out of Escanaba and other Green Bay ports will continue to operate during the herring fishing season.

HUNTERS SUCCESSFUL

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Chenoweth, who returned Monday from a two weeks' hunting trip spent in the Huron Mountain district, can tell the boys around town just how to hunt, and the boys will have to listen. "Daniel Boone" Mike himself a buck and a large bear, and Mrs. Chenoweth, who could readily go by the name of "Annie Oakley" shot a buck for the boys to eat in camp and also filled her own license. A very profitable hunting trip for the trooper and his wife.

WAR FUND OVER TOP

Subscriptions to the United War Fund in Alger county now total $3,026.48, or $404.48 over the quota of $2,622, while the Scout fund, included in the Munising canvass, still is $204.74 short of the quota of $1,300, it was announced yesterday by Miss Helen Norberg, treasurer.

The Scout fund of $1,300 is being solicited in the city of Munising only. It is expected that as soon as all solicitors have reported the Munising quota will be exceeded.

Hunters Urged To Sell Deer Hides

Lansing.—An appeal to hunters to see that their deer hides are turned into regular commercial channels is made by the conservation department.

Deer skin is needed for use in making aviators' jackets and other clothing, the department said, and for a hunter to throw away the skin from the buck he shoots is a needless waste. All that is necessary for the hunter to do is to turn in his deer skin to a hide tanner, who will pay him for it.

While between 40,000 and 50,000 bucks are normally shot in Michigan during the November hunting season, the department estimated that usually fewer than half of the hides would be salvaged for tanning. The rest are discarded when the deer are skinned.

Confounds His Enemies

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has confounded his enemies and taken a big forward step to regain the confidence of the American people, by appointing probably the best qualified man in the nation to succeed Secretary of State Cordell Hull. The appointment of Edward R. Stettinius Jr., announced only three hours after the resignation of the aged Cordell Hull had been officially made public by the president, is conclusive proof that at no time had Mr. Roosevelt considered the making of a purely "political" appointment to that high office, the claims of commentators and columnists, to the contrary.

While Mr. Stettinius lacks an extensive background in State department affairs, he was the personal selection of Secretary Hull, to succeed Sumner Welles, as under-secretary of state, when Mr. Welles resigned, as the result of differences in policies in international affairs several months ago. Thus the new Secretary of State can be expected to follow the general policies that had been adhered to so steadfastly by one of the most brilliant statesmen ever to serve in that important office in a president's cabinet.

The appointment by the president of Mr. Stettinius, certainly, was not dictated, in any manner, by political considerations. It was the appointee's service in the State department and his adherence to the policies laid down by his venerable predecessor that evidently, alone, backed Mr. Roosevelt's choice. It was an action that deserves the commendation of all people in the nation.

And on the same day that President Roosevelt made a purely non-political appointment for the highest office in his cabinet, he announced the selection of Patrick J. Hurley for the now highly important ambassadorship to China. While Mr. Hurley has frequently served as international trouble shooter for the president in the past, he has openly disagreed with the president on domestic policies, so that his selection, too, was most certainly, not dictated by political expediency.

Mr. Roosevelt, in the two important appointments announced on Monday, is following a course that should do much to break down political disunity in this nation and reestablish that relationship between our government and its people so necessary to the winning of World War II.

Should Be Pushed

IT WAS developed, through inquiry yesterday, that lack of recent publicity does not mean that local interest has lagged in the proposal for the establishment of a federally owned veterans' rehabilitation hospital at Gladstone. In addition to the various veterans' organizations, interested in pressing Gladstone's claims for recognition as a site for the proposed institution, a county organization, headed by A. T. Sohlberg, of Gladstone as president and A. M. Gilbert, of Escanaba, as secretary, is in contact with Washington authorities where the proposal awaits the action of congress.

With the support of both state and national veterans' organizations a bill has been introduced in congress, specifically providing for the acceptance of the site offered in the city of Gladstone and the erection of a hospital building. In addition, it is understood that those backing the proposal have received the assurance of officials in control of veterans affairs at Washington that if and when funds are provided by congress, Gladstone's claims for recognition will be given full consideration.

Unquestionably a great number of veterans hospitals will be and are now needed to provide proper care for the injured servicemen of this nation. With the backing of state and national organizations already given to Gladstone's proposal, it would seem that the time is ripe for pushing the matter before congress. The machinery has been set up and is functioning to accomplish that object and if funds are needed to more vigorously press Gladstone's claims those funds can be provided—if necessary by popular subscription in Delta county.

Gladstone is admirably located for the institution that is proposed and no community in the nation can offer a more ideal site than that already assured at Gladstone.

The proposal is of sufficient importance to warrant renewed action—now.

More Invasions Ahead

THE reconquest of the entire Philippine area is an avowed objective of the United States military forces in the Pacific and it can be presumed that this operation will be pressed relentlessly in the weeks ahead.

Nevertheless, even with all of the Philippines back in our hands we shall be no closer to Japan than we are now at Saipan. This means, of course, that while the Philippines can be turned into a great arsenal to carry home the attack against the Nipponese, we shall still have to rely almost entirely on the B-29 Superfortresses for sustained aerial bombardment of the Japanese homeland.

When the war in Europe is ended, whether it be this winter or next spring, thousands of Liberators and Flying Forts, complete with trained crews and ground forces, will be available for service in the Pacific. These heavy bombers, potent as they are, cannot conceivably be effective in the bombardment of Japan from bases in Saipan or the Philippines. Huge bases closer to Japan will have to be seized and rebuilt. These bases are now in Japanese hands and they will have to be taken by frontal assault, by Allied ground forces.

Then, and only then, will the full weight of the Allied air power be available for aerial assaults against the Japanese islands in the manner in which we are now striking at Germany.

The aerial battle of Japan has already begun. We have reached the point where we can hit Japan regularly with 100 Superforts and their huge bomb loads. When this can be stepped up to thousands of planes, including Superforts, Liberators and Fortresses, we shall be ready for the complete destruction of the Nipponese will to wage war.

PONTIAC AND OAKLAND DRAG

(Pontiac Daily Press)

Precinct workers and voting officials have offered their explanations as to why some of Oakland county's vote tabulations lagged and dragged on into the next day, late the following night—and worse. In spite of the reasons advanced, a few significant and pertinent facts still remain:

Some Pontiac precincts were very late. Some county precincts were very late. This is still the truth.

It is not the intent or purpose of the press to point the finger of blame at anyone. Perhaps all the late precincts had cogent reasons. All we seek is the correction of a definite evil. If the precincts are the right size, the work should be handled in the slow precincts as rapidly as it is in those which finish on time.

Oakland county doesn't enjoy a very enviable record at election time. The Associated Press compiles the totals for the entire state. The AP is always battling to get slow moving, laggard precincts from the state.

Oakland isn't the only offender. But we're one of the slowest. Our record isn't good.

This applies to city and county. Most of the precincts do a commendable job. They compile their totals along with the bulk of the nation. Their figures are submitted on time in state elections and in national elections. But a few precincts drag and drag. The press is making no attempt to fix the responsibility. This is strictly a matter for the election officials. But the citizens in general do want to make it clear that corrections are necessary in some instances.

The state recommends that precincts greater in size than a thousand be divided. The local recommendations suggest reductions when they exceed 600. Seven city precincts exceed the thousand mark. It is notable that six of the seven were among the last ten to submit their figures; and all failed to complete their work until after noon the following day. Precinct number twenty-two with more than a thousand votes was in by eight the next morning.

Hats off to twenty-two. Berkeley and Waterford were the tail enders outside the city. Alfred Gale, veteran campaigner and one of the best versed political figures in Oakland county, lays the Waterford blame on insufficient people. The fact still remains that the war covers the entire continent. Townships all over the county faced the same or similar circumstances.

They counted their votes on time. Oakland county's late totals came in long after the results of the election were known.

President Roosevelt was named. Governor Dewey had congratulated him. The election was over. In fact, when Waterford, Berkeley and some of the city stragglers limped under the wire with their results, one of the political parties was practically laying plans for the next campaign.

City Clerk Maurer says voting machines cost approximately a thousand dollars. That would mean upwards of $40,000 for the city of Pontiac. This election cost the city $5,000 as it is.

Perhaps voting machines are the answer. Perhaps they are not. This is a matter for those charged with the responsibility of counting the vote to decide.

Royal Oak has them. So does Birmingham.

Many other cities do, too.

Pontiac and Oakland county citizens at large are mainly interested in getting the results on time.

PASSING OF THE WHALEBACK

(Detroit Free Press)

To those Detroiters who recall the charm of pleasant summer afternoons spent in riding on the Belle Isle ferries, there will be a nostalgic wrench in the news that the S.S. Alex McDougall, last of the whaleback fleet on the Great Lakes, is headed for the scrap heap.

The whaleback never fulfilled the expectations of its builders as a cargo carrier and only a few were put in operation. But no more picturesque craft ever sailed the waters of the Great Lakes. The "pig boats" were a wonder and delight to all who saw them and were a major attraction for the tourists visiting our shores.

A generation ago saw the last of the lumber schooners vanish from the Lakes. The passing of the whaleback marks the end of another era.

Many a man wishes his wife could cook as well as he tells his friends she can.

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—At the very last minute, the air conference in Chicago failed in its chief objective. The high hopes were suddenly dashed to the ground.

Just what went wrong is a matter of argument between the British and ourselves. The American delegates say that Britain welched at the last minute on a previous agreement to bar the quota system for air traffic, a system that our senate would never approve in a treaty.

Apparently someone in London—and it must have been someone very high up—pulled the plug on an agreement that was final except for signatures. What looms bigger than the Rock of Gibraltar is that Britain seems to be demanding that the world's air traffic be divided on a 50-50 basis regardless of America's competitive position.

The British are doing this by holding out for a stipulation that air lines making long international hops must not be allowed to pick up pay passengers and freight at intermediate stops on the way to the ultimate destination. Such long distance flights are not commercially possible unless business can be picked up along the way.

—A SERIOUS FAILURE—

An interim sub-committee has been named to try to work out this basic difference. But, to put it in the words of Adolf A. Berle, Jr., chairman of the American delegation, we're still back in the 17th century, and that door into the 20th century that had been about to open is shut again.

This failure seems to me very serious. It makes the "limited success" of Dumbarton Oaks look small indeed. All the fine talk in the world about co-operation and security will mean little if we can't get together on these basic sources of conflict.

When you put this alongside the failure of the senate to act on the British-U. S. oil agreement, it looks, as one cynic put it, as though "normalcy" had come back with a rush. It is likely to prove a very costly kind of normalcy.

Sometimes, from this side of the Atlantic, Britain has the look of a nervous old landlord who is preoccupied with the ownership of his real estate around the world. John Bull, obsessed with the fear that Britannia may cease to rule the waves, clings to old illusions.

And to the British, at times, we must have the look of a colossus bent on having our way in the world no matter what anyone else wants or needs. Uncle Sam as blind colossus! That is the picture that gets through to Britishers.

Are these the distorting mirrors in which we are to see each other? If so, then it's a waste of time to hold international conferences.

From this side of the water, it looks as though the Churchill government were playing the old familiar game of power politics in Europe. France, Belgium and Holland are to be aligned in a British bloc.

—THOUSANDS STILL DYING—

Those three countries have a lot of real estate around the world, too. Perhaps they will combine with Britain to checkmate American air lines under something like the quota system.

All this comes while the war is still being fought, while thousands of American, British and French are dying. I happen to believe that this was started as a war for survival. We were confronted with a design for world conquest by the Fascist powers.

We'll survive. We'll come out of it with greater power than we ever had before. But, somehow, I think that survival won't be enough for those who are doing the fighting and the dying. They will want something more. They will not understand why "quota systems" should get in the way of real world peace.

WORDS TO WATCH

In American speech, many words suffer dislocated accents, and the result is nearly always painful—to the listener with a sensitive ear.

"Private Blank has received a medical DIS-charge." No. Discharge, noun and verb, is accented only on the second syllable, thus: dis-CHARGE.

"What do we intend to con-trib-UTE to the peace?" (Actually heard on a radio comment.) Such a pronunciation apparently is the result of association with the word contribution. But the verb contribute must be accented on the second syllable, thus: kun-TRIB-ute.

"Bring about the speedy reconversion of American heavy in-DUS-try." Another radio die-hard, and doubtless influenced by the adjective industrious. But be sure that the only stress falls on the first syllable, thus: in-DUS-try.

"To the reporter's in-queer-y the President replied. 'No comment.'" Of eleven reputable dictionaries, only three show "in-queer-y," and as second choice. Three list as first choice and eight list as only choice: in-KWY-rec.

Loma Linda: A friend referred to me as a "bibliophagist." Now tell me, is that a fighting word?—J. M. S.

A. Not if you are extremely fond of reading. Bibliophagist means literally, "a devourer of books." It's pronounced: BIB-li-OF-uh-jist. A similar word is bibliophile, "book lover," pronounced: BIB-li-oh-file, the last syllable rhyming with "mile, vile."

It Is Commonly Known as "Bulldog Tenacity"

Good Morning!

—By The Bugler—

CITIZENSHIP — On a recent trip to Escanaba to receive applications for United States citizenship, R. W. Gearing, naturalization examiner from Sault Ste. Marie, made the startling statement that most applications from aliens who have lived in this country for a score or more years.

Why the long delay between the arrival in this country of many people from foreign countries and their application for citizenship? Are they content to reap the benefits of residence in this country without assuming its obligations?

The answer seems to be that in the majority our resident aliens are not un-American at all. They are simply surrounded by influences that cause them to delay their efforts at obtaining citizenship from year to year, until finally they are urged into it by their children who, by their birth in this country, have full citizenship rights.

PRACTICE IT—This is not to say that every alien resident is not a good citizen. To all outward appearances he is as good or better than many of those who have been born in this country. He is usually honest, upright, often takes an active part in community affairs—and falls short of full citizenship only in being unable to exercise the right of franchise.

These resident aliens who have been in this country for many years are citizens in spirit if not in fact. It takes only that little push on the part of those close to them to start the legal machinery that makes them United States citizens.

LANGUAGE BARRIER—Often the resident alien was for many years surrounded almost exclusively by others of his particular racial group. In the past it was the practice to have whole groups of some one country come to this country and, over a period of years, establish here a little corner of the old world.

In these little social groups only the foreign language of the mother country was spoken, the religion of the old country was practiced exclusively, the beliefs, the superstitions and the ideologies of the past clung fast. Only the march of time and the influence of the public school upon the younger members broke down the wall of foreignism.

Where the group was large enough and extremely cohesive, it sometimes established its own schools, its own churches, had its own foreign-language newspapers. Such a growth on the face of a democracy is as unwelcome as a wart on the face of a beautiful woman.

HAS ADVANTAGES—The law has its advantages, as has been shown both in the past and in the present. Should the alien resident so far act against the interests of this country that he can be construed to be an enemy, either in wartime or peacetime, he can be deported without fuss or feathers.

If, however, our laws had made it mandatory that he become a citizen, there would be legal difficulties involved which would make it virtually impossible to deal with him. Better to have him an enemy alien than an enemy citizen.

THE VOTING AGE—Some states have lowered the voting age of citizens to 18 years. The question of whether youths of 18 should be permitted the franchise is the subject for debate this season in the Escanaba high school.

There is to be said on the subject: Age alone, whether 18 or 82, will not guarantee intelligent citizenship. Many of our grade school children are better equipped to vote intelligently than some of the aliens who are admitted to citizenship in this country—or some of the "real Americans" who are borderline institutional cases.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Washington — Bitter Brothers-in-Law. The ousting of Dr. H. H. Kung as Chinese Minister of Finance was a victory for Foreign Minister T. V. Soong. Both are brother-in-law of Chiang Kai-shek, both for a time were stationed in the U. S. A., but scarcely spoke to each other. Even Madame Chiang, when she came here last year, saw her brother, T. V. Soong, only briefly. But smart T. V. Soong returned to China, got back in the good graces of brother-in-law Chiang, while his sister, the Generalissimo's wife, now not in her husband's good graces, departed . . . Such is Chinese politics.

Lieut. General Mark Clark's daughter Ann sent a letter to her papa in Italy the other day addressed in a unique way. She merely drew her father's profile on the envelope under the word "To." Under the picture of her Dad, she wrote the word "At" and then drew the Fifth Army shield. There was no name or address, but the letter reached General Clark pronto . . .

Bete noir Sidney Hillman, who sent shivers down Hannegan's spine but got out the vote, will leave for London shortly to help set up the world labor conference. R. J. Thomas of the CIO auto workers, and Emil Rieve of the CIO textile union, will go with him. That's why the AFL is playing aloof from London.

Fiery Fiorella La Guardia is balking about going to Italy because Brass Hats in the War Department won't give him authority. Says the Little Flower: "Either you're allowed to do something or you're not. And I'm not going to Italy to sit on my fanny." . . . One off-the-record remark of Winston Churchill's never before published can now see the light of cold print. In 1940, as France fell and Britain's back was to the wall, he told Parliament how, if the Nazi hordes stormed English beaches, the British army would beat them off to the last man. During subsequent applause, Churchill leaned over to Anthony Eden and said sotto voce: "But I don't know what in hell we're going to do it with. We're going to have to hit the buggers over the head with bottles." . . . Although the world didn't know it, Roosevelt jumped in, emptied U. S. arsenals, sent everything to England . . . Another Churchill off-the-record remark which Presidential aides are still chuckling over was when FDR went into Churchill's room in the White House one morning and found him walking up and down the room, dictating to a secretary—cigar in mouth, but not a stitch of clothing on except bed-room slippers. Churchill, unabashed, remarked: "I have nothing to conceal, Mr. President."

Western War Notes. Decision for the present big push against Germany was made by General Marshall when he conferred with Eisenhower in France. Marshall made the final decision, figured we had one last chance to break Germany before January 1. After that date, the fighting will be more difficult . . . Also, by spring, when the ground thaws, Hitler will have had time to train a million fresh troops. They are not high-quality manpower, but they could help prolong the war. At present, Hitler is just about out of reserves . . . When the U. S. Third Army takes the Saar basin with its rich coal mines, a partial load will be taken off U. S. industry. WPB experts figure that Saar coal going to French factories will mean we won't have to export so much to France.

Navy-MacArthur feuding has broken out all over again. It was bad during the early stages of the war two years ago, but was patched up by Admiral Nimitz and MacArthur personally . . . Now MacArthur blames the Navy for letting Jap troops sneak ashore on Leyte, while the Navy blames "Dou-out Doug" for jumping the gun with far too optimistic communiques . . . Also, they point out that the Japs have built about 100 air bases on nearby islands and it's tough for carrier-based planes to compete with land-based planes . . . If Doug had built as many air bases as the Japs when he commanded the Philippines before Pearl Harbor, the Navy claims it might not now be necessary to retake the Philippines . . . With MacArthur the boss man in the Philippine theatre, the Navy has coined a new twist to the GOP's "Sidney" campaign slogan. In the Pacific, they say it's "Clear everything with Doug."

Franco's Demand that Spain sit at the peace table is not going to get very far despite the frantic appeals of U. S. Ambassador Carlton Hayes. Roosevelt is thumbs down on the Franco proposal. Needless to say, Stalin, who wouldn't send air delegates to Chicago because the Spaniards were there, will not let Franco anywhere near the main ring of the Peace Conference . . . Meanwhile, Ambassador Hayes is constantly dinnning the State Department to get more oil, textiles, other strategic materials for Franco . . . Ira Nelson Morris' best-selling "Liberty Street" is being rewritten for Broadway . . . President Osma is making arrangements to return the body of the late President Quezon to the Philippines . . . Osma left his personal aide here to look after Mrs. Quezon and her family . . . The AFL is about the only outfit which wants the lame-duck Dies Committee continued. Reason is disclosed in the AFL annual report, as follows: "At present, it (the Dies Committee) is engaged in investigating the Political Action Committee of the CIO."

If the Fuehrer still thinks he's the Hitler of old there certainly is something wrong with his head.

The Japs were caught napping by our B-29s—and a lot of them are never going to wake up.

Keep a handy beauty-box in your desk drawer if you are a working girl, so that you will be prepared for a sudden evening date.

NEXT OF KIN TO HOLD MEETING

Relatives Of Prisoners Of War Will Confer With Red Cross

The next of kin of 27 Delta county servicemen held prisoner by the German or Japanese governments will meet at 1:30 o'clock Saturday, December 2, at the Red Cross home service headquarters in Escanaba, it was announced yesterday by O. V. Thatcher, chairman of the Delta county prisoners of war committee of the Red Cross.

The meeting will be the first of its kind to be called in this county. Purpose of the meeting is to acquaint the next of kin of American prisoners of war, usually the wife or the mother, with all of the information received by the Red Cross on prisoners of war.

When and how to write letters and send packages to prisoners of war, what equipment has been supplied to prisoners of war through the Red Cross is included in the information which the next of kin will receive.

The meeting also will give these close relatives an opportunity to get together for the first time, to compare notes on the information they have received from their sons or husbands since they were prisoners. In some instances relatives have found that two boys from the same county are prisoners at the same camp without knowledge of the next of kin.

There are 27 servicemen from Delta county who are known to be prisoners of war. Chairman Thatcher said. As the war continues this number can be expected to increase, and further next of kin meetings for their benefit will be held.

The Red Cross through its home service office is assisting relatives in their efforts to contact and communicate with prisoners. For any information concerning prisoners of war the Red Cross home service office is ready to aid the next of kin as far as possible. Nationally the Red Cross home service offices are a clearing house for this information.

Reappraisal To Provide Correct Values In City

The reappraisal and revaluation of all taxable properties in the city of Escanaba by the J. M. Clemmishaw firm of Cleveland, as authorized by the Escanaba city council, will remove existing inequities and provide a fair and correct basis for taxation.

The taxing system in the city has not been reviewed since 1916, and inequalities in valuations as between properties are known by the council to exist. Through the reappraisal work of the expert appraisers it is possible that valuations may be increased, but that will not necessarily result in higher taxes. The city does not want or need higher tax revenue, but it does seek to establish equitable values on all properties.

It is expected that a representative of the Clemmishaw company will be in Escanaba about December 4 to begin the reappraisal work. The services of experienced and competent appraisers will be provided to execute the work.

The terms of the contract between the city and the appraisal company provides for a complete revaluation of all properties in Escanaba except city-owned public utility properties.

The company will make a careful construction cost analysis, and separate unit costs will be developed for all types of commercial, industrial and special purpose buildings. After the accuracy of the construction cost figures are tested, the valuations of residences will be figured in square foot units for the several qualities of construction.

There will be more than 100 additions or deductions from the base prices, so that whatever changes may be made from base specifications can be closely and accurately established.

All of the information will be set up by the appraisers in a fully comprehensible manner so that the city assessor may be able at all times to show the taxpayer how his property valuations were determined.

The appraisal of industrial plants will include the drawing to scale of plat plans for the properties. Buildings will be described, priced at current reproductive cost, and depreciated according to age, condition and function. Depreciated values shall be sound utility value for the purpose for which each plant is being, or can be utilized. Fixed machinery and equipment, taxable as real property, will be priced at current reproductive costs, plus installation and depreciated individually.

A careful investigation of the current fair value of land also will be made by the appraisers. Recent land sales will be analyzed, and owners, local building and loan associations, mortgage companies, banks and realtors will be consulted. In platted areas unit front foot values will be established for lots of standard depth, and acreage prices for land in various classes, quality and location will be determined.

The appraisers will inspect each plot or lot and make necessary adjustments in value where there are irregularities such as banks, steep slopes, swamps or anything which may detract from the normal usefulness of the land.

The city council has stipulated that the work be completed by June 1 of next year, prior to the meeting of the board of review. The contract with the Clemmishaw company provides that a representative of the firm will be present at the meeting of the board of review to assist in the settlement of complaints and to defend the new values should any cases be appealed.

Venison Recipe Book Is Offered

Lansing—There is a delicious recipe for every single part of the deer the husband brings back from the north woods, the department of conservation says. There is no need for throwing out any part of the carcass because the wife doesn't know just how to prepare it for the table. Last year the department and Michigan State college distributed a booklet, "Venison from Forest to Table." The edition was exhausted. An additional supply has now been obtained and copies are available on request from the department's Lansing office or from the various district offices. The booklet contains venison recipes for everything from roasting to "deerburgers."

Warm—but not fair!

JOE's got the house too hot by careless firing of the furnace, so he's trying to heat all outdoors by opening the windows. Through wasteful practices, he isn't being fair to his own family—or to other families using coal. He isn't helping America.

This winter it's vital to conserve coal as never before. This isn't because less coal is being produced. Actually, millions more tons are being mined this year than last—by fewer men. Quite a tribute to mine owners and miners alike!

There are adequate facilities for hauling coal to your city. But certain grades and sizes of coal are needed for war production. And, in addition, your local coal dealer is handicapped by a shortage of manpower, trucks and tires. So be patient with him. Order before you're down to your last shovelful.

And conserve the coal he is able to deliver to you through firing carefully, closing off unused rooms, pulling down shades at night and through other simple precautions. For other suggestions see your coal dealer.

One of the biggest jobs of the C&O Lines is hauling coal from the mines along its routes, so we're in a position to understand the problem, and to know how essential coal is these days.

Set Hand Proves
Puzzler at Local Bridge Gathering

BY L. W. OLSON

The Delta Bridge League met at the Sherman Hotel last Saturday evening with a nice turnout in attendance. However, the size of the turnout was not up to par and we once again urge all of our old members to attend these meetings. We are expecting a record turnout next Saturday evening with the hunting season over and colder weather starting to be the regular thing.

We had a really tough hand for the set hand at this meeting and it really stopped most all of the players who played it. The hand was a simple squeeze and I am somewhat disappointed that only one pair, Mrs. L. P. Treiber and Mrs. R. L. Parsons, saw the solution and played this hand properly. Here is the hand with the bidding and the play.

Both vulnerable: North dealer.

In some cases West put in a double over the bid of one spade. Where this occurred South should have even less difficulty making the hand as it places all the outstanding honor tricks in the West hand.

The opening lead in all cases was the king of hearts which was followed in rapid succession by the ace and queen. When the queen of hearts held the third trick West with the thought of preventing diamond ruffs lead the four of spades. Declarer having taken this with the ace in the dummy has no choice but to lead another round of trump and his world brightens somewhat when the queen drops. Now the lead of a small club allows the declarer to enter his hand and draw West's last trump. Declarer at this point realizes that if the diamond queen is in the East hand a single finesse will win the hand for him. However, South knows that the finesse should and can be put off until the last resort. With this thought in mind South leads out his last three trumps and on the last of them West must come down to three cards. He must hold three diamonds and also the king of clubs which of course is impossible. If West discards the king of clubs declarer can win the last three tricks with the queen of clubs and the ace and king of diamonds. If West lets go of a diamond it will make the three diamonds in declarer's hand good for the last three tricks.

Pairs scoring over fifty percent were as follows:

1. Mrs. F. J. Earle and Mrs. J. L. Temby, 63.88.
2. Mrs. L. P. Treiber and Mrs. R. L. Parsons, 62.30.
3. Mrs. J. Shipman and Mrs. B. M. Howe, 61.11.
4. Dr. and Mrs. G. C. Christie, 60.31.
5. Mr. and Mrs. J. Ferguson, 57.14.
6. Mrs. R. W. Haddock and Mrs. C. B. Farrell, 55.14.
7. Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jensen, 53.88.
8. Mrs. C. W. Murdock and Mrs. L. W. Olson, 52.76.
9. J. L. Temby and E. J. Kremer, 50.00.

Worry Clinic

With Case Records Of
A Psychologist

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE D-285: Jerry P., aged 49, is married to a woman of 35. "I've been getting drunk pretty often lately," he confessed, "and it's just to get away from an unsolved problem."

"If I don't find a solution soon, I'm afraid I'll end it all by a bullet through my head."

"Three months ago I became impotent. It drove me frantic. I've tried all sorts of patent medicines and hormones, gonadal injections and so forth, but to no avail."

"In all justice, shouldn't I urge her to try her luck with another marriage? I'm just a millstone around her neck."

"I've read your column diligently so it has been with a prayer in my heart that I have come here to see you in person. This is my zero hour."

Diagnosis
I have reproduced Jerry's exact comments so you readers can see the emotional state of the typical male when he becomes frightened. After being married for some time, millions of husbands notice a lack of their former ardor.

They don't acknowledge such fears to their mates, for their pride will not permit such an admission. So they camouflage their difficulty and try to divert their wife's attention from the real problem by growing unduly bitter and sarcastic. They pick on her about trifles, such as her cooking or supposedly poor housekeeping. They even lose interest in their children.

This isn't the truth, but an alibi. Jerry isn't organically impotent. I cured him in an hour's interview. But he has grown worried. This made him analytical. He watched himself out of the corner of his eye, so to speak.

But you cannot be analytical and emotional at the same time. Thus, the moment that a man grows worried or fearful, he can soon kill his desire, even in 24 hours.

Most men are impotent for psychological reasons. An understanding wife can readily cure this type of impotence.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3c stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs when you seek personal advice or one of his psychological charts.)

EVERY ONE TO GET A TELEPHONE

★ Buy an EXTRA
War Bond NOW

LIKE YOU, we are planning what to do after peace comes. Our chief problem will be to take care of folks who want to know, "How soon can I get a telephone?"

Of course, there's only one satisfactory answer—a telephone at once. But in many cases it may be as long as two years after final victory before we can be in shape to give that answer.

In some places, we will have to erect and equip new buildings. Where we already have buildings, it will be a matter of adding to present central office equipment, or cables or both. In every case, the telephone factories, after release from war work, must be retooled and then manufacture the needed apparatus.

Even after the building is erected and the apparatus made, it takes many months to equip a telephone central office.

Happy the day when we again can supply telephone service to any one who wants it—when and where wanted!

Half of a doe deer was found hanging in a shed at the Casimir farm near Perkins and there was also a hide from a small deer, apparently a fawn.

The trial of John Narkooli, Albert Nelson and Bernard Heikila, all of Rock, charged with head-lighting deer, originally scheduled for Nov. 30, has been postponed at the request of Atty. Harland Yeland, counsel for the defense, who has advised the court he will be in Lansing on Nov. 30.

ADULT CLASSES HANDICAPPED

Lack Of State Funds May Halt Local Project

Classes in adult education at the local high school may not materialize on the scale originally planned because of depletion of state funds allocated for that purpose, Supt. A. F. Hall announces.

State funds had been allocated for the purpose of holding such classes, but the interest shown has been much greater than anticipated and schools which were late in availing themselves of this advantage will not receive the funds necessary to carry on the work, Mr. Hall explains, but he adds that he has hopes that ways and means will be found to permit the teaching of several courses.

Much interest was shown in these courses at a recent meeting held for the purpose of sounding out local sentiment. About forty people were present and thirty-five registered. As a result, classes in stenography and typing and in advanced mathematics have already been started. The Misses Lilla Kakuri and Elizabeth Falk, will have charge of the stenography classes and William J. Cook of mathematics.

There is a possibility, also, that there will be classes in sewing, welding and Spanish, but these will be out of the question unless state aid is available.

According to the original proposal, state funds were to take care of 75 per cent of the expense. Now that the state funds are not available, the local board of education declines to go through with the courses and bear the entire expense.

A meeting of school board representatives from this area will be held Thursday and the subject of adult education will be brought up for discussion. Members of the local board plan to attend.

LUND IS VOTED MOST VALUABLE

Detroit Who Replaced Wiese Tops Poll Of U. M. Teammates

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 28 (P)—Fullback Don Lund of Detroit, who replaced Captain Bob Wiese in the first string backfield for the University of Michigan's last four football games this season, today was voted by his teammates as the "most valuable" member of the 1944 Michigan team.

End Bruce Hilkene of Indianapolis was elected captain for 1945. Lund, playing his third season at Michigan, saw service at both center and fullback this year until Wiese, captain and regular fullback, was shipped out to Navy Pre-Midshipman school after playing six games.

The 21-year-old Detroit, 4-F in the draft, then took over Wiese's starting backfield post and filled the job admirably, in addition to serving with Quarterback Joe Fomsetto of Flint as Wolverine co-captain for the last four games.

Hilkene, a product of Indianapolis Shortridge high school, was a standout Michigan line man, playing a big role in building the Wolverine's surprisingly fine record of eight victories in 10 games.

Despite an attack of illness, Hilkene played through the entire 60 minutes of last Saturday's game with Ohio State, losing 15 pounds in the process. Hilkene was one of seven navy trainees in the Wolverine starting lineup.

Under a recent agreement signed with Great Britain, Canada will supply the United Kingdom with approximately two and a half million board feet of lumber in the first two years after the end of the war in Europe.

Army-Navy Seniors Get Windup Glory Saturday

BY FRED STABLEY

Baltimore, Nov. 28 (P)—The end of the football rainbow for more than a score of senior Army and Navy players, including a dozen top stars, lies in Baltimore Municipal Stadium.

They'll be there Saturday with their underclass cohorts to fight for the pot of glory (not gold) that goes with victory in the 45th renewal of the service classic, and because it's their last try they can be depended upon to throw everything into the effort.

On the list of "last timers" will be such names as Doug Kenna, Tom Lombardo, Bob St. Onge, Joe Stanowicz, Arch Arnold, Ed Raffalko, Dale Hall and Bob Hayes, of Army, and Hal Hamberg, John Hansen, Jack Martin, Ben Chase, Dave Barksdale, Ben Martin, Vic Finos, Gail Gilliam and Charley Guy for Navy—names to be conjured with in the pigskin realm.

For the Army vets it will be the last chance to snatch elusive victory over Navy, and for the Annapolis Tars it will be their bid for a grand slam over their arch rivals.

Three of the senior Navy men—Darksdale, Ben Martin and Team Captain Chase—started the 1942 game against Army which the Middies won in Annapolis seclusion, 14 to 0. Hamberg and senior Fullback Joe Sullivan scintillated as substitutes, Hamberg passing to Ben Martin for a touchdown and Sullivan bucking for the other.

No starters from that 1942 game are still with Army, but Quarterback Doug Kenna, the young man doomed to recurrent injuries and a blighted career until this year, appeared in the fourth quarter to spark Army's two lone drives into Navy territory.

Five Navy and two Army starters from last year's classic which was won by Navy 13 to 0 at West Point, will be on hand. They are Don Whitmire, J. Martin, Chase, Bob Jenkins and B. Martin for Navy, and Stanowicz and Lombardo for Army.

Army's Bob MacKinnon, who started at left end last year, is still at the post, but has been out all year with injuries.

The virtually certain starters in the group are Stanowicz, Whitmire, J. Martin, Chase and Jenkins.

To underclassmen like Glenn Davis and Felix Blanchard of Army and Whitmire and Jenkins of Navy, the game will be important, of course, but not in the same degree as it will be to those who will say farewell to these inter-service feuds forever. To them this game is everything.

It was announced Tuesday evening by Coach Don Pelletier that his Delta county Independents will play the Gladstone Seniors at 4:30 Thursday afternoon at the center. The Independents' lineup will include Jerome Deloria and Tom McDermott, guards; Bill Perron, center; King and Red McCarty, forwards.

Coach Quarstrom of Gladstone indicated that Kallman and Maki would start as forwards, Jugo at center, Quarstrom, McCauley or LaVelle, guards.

SETBACK FOR MIDDIES

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 28 (P)—Bobby Jenkins, Navy's leading ground gaining back, was declared "out" of the Army game today because of an infected foot and hopes of the Middies to tuck away their sixth straight win over the Cadets Saturday took a severe setback.

Commander Oscar E. Hagberg, Navy head coach, announced that the former Alabama star who was a big gun in the Sailors' triumph over Army last year, would be sidelined.

WINGS WIN, 6-3

Boston, Nov. 28 (P)—Bill (Flash) Hollett, who dotes on humbling his recent Boston Bruins teammates, registered two unassisted goals against them while pacing the Detroit Red Wings to a 6-3 National Hockey League victory tonight before an 11,000 crowd at the Boston garden.

THIS JAPANESE IS A DODGER

MIDDIES MIGHT SURPRISE ARMY

Cadets Can't Score If Navy Boys Retain The Ball

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

New York — Andy Gustafson brings up a pertinent point in connection with the football Battle of the Century in Baltimore, Dec. 2.

"Army has demonstrated beyond a reasonable doubt that it can score, all right," says line coach Gustafson, "but how many opportunities will it have against a Navy team that hangs onto the ball all day?" The old Pittsburgh fullback recalls the 1941 game, when the Midshipmen were in possession for 13½ minutes of the final period.

Navy burns up time and the other side by moving four, six and eight yards at a crack, piles up first downs. The Middies go the hard way.

Army cannot afford to snuff opportunities for the long-gainers that have made the athletes from the Hudson Highlands a point-a-minute outfit. The Cadets will have none too many.

Through the herculean efforts of Babe Dimancheff, Purdue gained 177 yards on terra firma, the bulk of it through Navy's right side, but that doesn't mean one flank of the Annapolis forward wall has collapsed.

The Boilermaker total exceeded the combined ground mileage of the Future Admiral's seven previous opponents, four of whom wound up with a minus figure.

WHITMIRE THE WHALE

Navy's line will be the altitude of Pike's Peak higher for Army than it was for Cecil Isbell's boys.

If Army elects to leave Navy's left side strictly alone its fleet and hard-hitting blockers and backs will find no welcoming committee on the other flank. Capt. Ben Chase, Gail Gilliam and Johnny Martin and their replacements and back-ups are proven.

The principal reason rivals treat Navy's left side with such wholesome respect is the presence at tackle there of 5-foot-11, 215-pound Don Whitmire, the All-America from Alabama in his second year at Crabtown. Whitmire is a pillbox on defense and his cross-blocking on offense massacres guards. It was this seasoned young man from Decatur, Ala., who put Notre Dame on the bum.

"Every time I look at a picture I see Whitmire," asserts Herman Hickman, the Army line coach who is built along the same general lines and was all tackle himself at Tennessee. Lt.-Col. Earl Blaik has frightful dreams centering around Whitmire.

You can speak of little Hal Hamberg all you please, but it is the "Bama" teammates, Whitmire and Bob Jenkins, that Army fears most.

"Jenkins is the most punishing back in the country," means Coach Red Blaik. Navy also has among others a blocking back named Dick Duden.

Between a would-be tackler and Dick Duden is no place to be caught.

If there is an elderly person or child in your home, burn a low wattage light all night in the hall and bathroom to insure against accidents.

COMMISSION MAY RULE BASEBALL — Will Harridge, left, American League president; Leslie O'Connor, center, Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis' secretary for 24 years; and Ford C. Judge Landis Had Everything Needed For Job As Czar

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, Nov. 28 (P)—Well, they might pick a bleak, stern disciplinarian who conducted his office with big-business efficiency. They might decide on a showman, a gaudy gent with a flair for the spectacular who by word, deed and appearance kept his name and that of the sport with which he was associated before the public eye.

Or they might choose a "name," a man known and respected the country over for his accomplishments in other fields and for his rugged honesty, who would be a symbol of the integrity of the game and its high place in the national picture.

Bundle of Personality

But the baseball magnates won't be able to find an individual for the office of commissioner who combines all these attributes as effectively as did the late K. M. Landis. The "Judge" was a disciplinarian, showman and "name" rolled into one slight, compact bundle of vigorous, vivid personality.

We'll never forget our first meeting with the benevolent dictator. It was in the office of R. W. Simpson at the Tampa Tribune, and we were not disappointed. In other words, our impression of him had been formed by viewing pictures of him in various original poses and by reading of his vibrant personality and definite statements, and to meet him was to awaken from a dream and find it true.

There was only one flaw. He happened to have on a brand new hat, and not the weepy fedora usually pictured. Otherwise it was just meeting a man you'd always known—the sharp features, the must-patched eyes, the Santa Claus hair, the booming voice which, compared with the frail body, was the roar of a cannon coming from a bean shooter.

He was jovial, witty, and would talk of anything but baseball. He adroitly parried any questions concerning the game, and you unaccountably found yourself listening to a dissertation on the Sullivan-Corbett fight.

Had Unlimited Power

We couldn't even give a beans-in-the-jar guess as to who his successor might be. About everyone who has a job has been mentioned. It seems logical enough that a baseball man would be chosen for a baseball job, although Landis himself was not a baseball man originally. However, his choice was made during dark days when a man of unimpeachable character and integrity was needed to restore faith in the game.

That need does not exist now, thanks more than a little to the thorny little czar, and undoubtedly there are baseball men who could handle the mechanics of the job satisfactorily. It is doubtful if any man will be given the overall power enjoyed by Landis, although such power was an asset to the game during his regime. Without one loud, final voice there would be bickering and mutual distrust. Landis, right or wrong, was the accepted target, ready and willing to take praise or blame.

The little man, loved, respected and mightily feared, will be missed more than the game realizes, but the game will go on as before. Riding along on the precedent and tradition established by "the Judge."

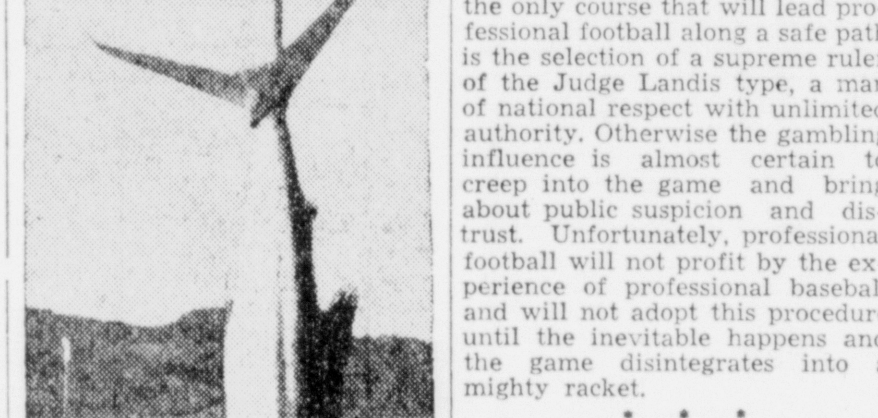

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gundersman

Professional football is heading for the huge explosion that has been smoldering for many months. The announcement of the organization of two new leagues—the American league and the United States league—to vie with the present National league for player talent and public support is the fuse that will set off this blast. Professional football has moved into the ranks of big business and a lot of guys are trying to get in on the ground floor. Some of these folks will almost assuredly get their fingers burned and it is the hope of every sports fan that they don't burn down the whole professional football house.

The two new leagues already announced are just the beginning. More are in the blueprint stage. Each league will operate under its own set of rules, which means that the leagues will continue to liberalize their regulations to outbid each other for player talent and public support. There will be no overall unity—nothing but shaky foundations. The expansion of professional football is desirable. There is no doubt of that. This expansion, however, must come about on a sound basis, under definite rules and regulations and with a single control. Any other plan will head the whole professional football business towards chaos.

As the scramble for good seats in the pro grid business unfolds, it becomes increasingly clear that the only course that will lead professional football along a safe path is the selection of a supreme ruler of the Judge Landis type, a man of national respect with unlimited authority. Otherwise the gambling influence is almost certain to creep into the game and bring about public suspicion and distrust. Unfortunately, professional football will not profit by the experience of professional baseball and will not adopt this procedure until the inevitable happens and the game disintegrates into a mighty racket.

Baseball in America has developed because it possessed uniformity in its regulation and because of strong leadership. There is enough professional baseball went through the same growing pains as professional football is today. The baseball leaders learned a lesson the hard way and they established experience that the pro grid bosses may well study for their own benefit. Failure to study that lesson, in fact, is the simplest way to court disaster for professional football. It must be borne in mind that professional football is made to order for the unscrupulous gamblers because it is easier to "throw" a football game than it is a baseball game. For that reason, if for no other professional football must be even more vigilant than baseball.

The Associated Press average of 20 rails attained a new peak since 1927 by a slender margin.

Turnover was heavy in St. Paul 5s of 1975, the adjustment 5s North Western 4½s and Rock Island 4s and 4½s but little change either way resulted. The various Lehigh Valley bonds were pushed up strongly, some to new highs, on smaller trade. The various bonds of the Erie Railroad, International Great Northern and New Orleans, Texas & Mexico responded to news the last barrier to paying off more than $100,000,000 in back interest had been hurdled.

Steady to firm spots elsewhere included the International Telephone bonds, Santa Fe adjustment 4s, Seaboard refunding 4s, Childs Co. 5s, Rio Grande Western 4s, International Hydro Electric 5s, U. S. No. 1, 2, 3, 4s and Skelly Oil 3s. U. S. government bonds were mostly unchanged.

Brasserie Lipp bonds, turned about widely with mixed results. Other foreign dollar loans were about steady.

STUDENTS PUSH 6TH WAR LOAN

High School Classes Organized For Sales Campaign

Cooperating with the community effort to reach the county quota for the Sixth War Loan Drive, students of the Escanaba Senior High School have organized themselves by grades and sophomores, juniors and seniors will compete in selling bonds and stamps.

Each class has a committee which is divided into sub-committees, one for sales and one for publicity. Juniors are opening the contest by selling bonds and stamps today, sophomores will sell tomorrow and seniors Friday. The classes will alternate in that order throughout the drive. The winning class will be determined on the basis of total cash sales, number of pledges obtained from parents, friends and relatives outside school, and on the number of hours of service spent in cooperation with the community committees.

On December 6, each class will present a skit at an all-school assembly in an effort to secure enough pledges for stamp purchases to permit the high school to fly the minute-man flag which signifies that 90% of the student body is buying stamps or bonds during the month.

Members of the senior class committee are Ada Hansen, chairman, Lorraine Northrup, Mary Beauchamp, Lois Johnson, Joann Harrington, Gird Nilsen, Marvel Jacobs, Jean L'Heureux, Rosalie Peterson, Gladys Schmelter, Mary St. Martin and Rachel Anthony. Dick Schram is the faculty sponsor.

Miss Alice Potter is faculty advisor of the junior class committee which includes Helen St. Martin, chairman, Mary Sue Farrell, Shirley Nolden, Jeanne Groos, Grace Peterson, Helen Johnson, Dick Emrich, Anna Mae Loveland, Cecile Samuels, Dorothy Peterson and Phyllis Elliot.

On the sophomore committee are Marilyn Groos, chairman, Peggy Owens, Maria Jensen, Ethel Richer, Irma Bartley, Mary Lou Villeneuve, Coleen LaCom, Theresa Derusha, Marilyn Meiers and Antoinette Giansanti. Miss Bernadette Brennan is faculty advisor.

50 Hear Judge Wm. Stephens At First Men's Club Meeting

Judge William Stephens of Manistique spoke on "The Man's Place in the Church and the Community" Monday night at the first meeting of the Methodist Men's Brotherhood which was attended by approximately 50. Judge Stephens was introduced by Rev. Otto Steen.

The program began with a vespers dinner served by the ladies of the church. Fred Johnson was master of ceremonies. Rev. Alun O. Jones of the First Presbyterian church spoke in behalf of the Men's Club of that church, and Carl Sawyer, chairman of the church board, talked briefly. Also included on the program were three vocal selections by Dan Raess, accompanied by Miss Florence Anderson.

Group singing was led by Paul Bowers and accompanied by Mrs. George Kieser.

Plans were made for a Christmas party to be held on Monday, December 17. Questionnaires regarding the purpose and activities of the organization will be sent to

Urge Action on Proposed Hospital For Veterans

A. T. Sohlberg, chairman of a committee seeking the establishment of a veterans hospital at Gladstone for the care and treatment of the war wounded, yesterday urged action to bring the matter again to the attention of Veterans Affairs officials.

A bill is now in congress providing for appropriations to establish such veterans hospitals, but the need now apparently is for the Veterans Affairs administration to furnish a definite program for their construction. Chairman Sohlberg said that he believes there would be little difficulty in obtaining the necessary appropriation if such a program was presented.

The proposal to establish a veterans hospital at Gladstone has received the approval of the American Legion and other veterans organization. The Hon. Fred Bradley, congressman from the 11th district, has assisted the local committee in presenting its proposal for the Gladstone site to General Hines, administrator of Veterans Affairs.

Chairman Sohlberg and other members of the committee on a trip to Washington in the interests of the project were assured by General Hines several months ago that plans were being formulated for veterans hospital facilities all over the country. When and if a veterans hospital was to be located in this area, Gladstone would be considered, he said. Later Chairman Sohlberg received a letter to the same effect.

The lapse of time, however, without action on the project has caused the committee to become anxious over the outcome of their proposal. While there has been no information on the establishment of hospitals elsewhere in recent months, there is need to direct attention again to Gladstone's proposal, the committee feels.

"Those who are interested in the project, including the public outside of veterans organizations, could assist, I believe, by addressing letters to federal officials urging action on it," Chairman Sohlberg said.
